Upper Long Cane.

It is confidently expected that our new church will be ready for service the 4th 'un-day of Sept. We think it highly proper that some special service be held on this occasion, and that the old church, now new, be reand that the old childer, so dedicated.

Rev. W. G. Neville, D. D., has kindly consented to preach the dedicatory sermon on the 4th Sunday.

The pastor will preach at Central School House next Sunday at 11 o'clock, a. m.

Buy Breibahn's

If the passer by will look in on Brelhahn about meal time, he will see that his place is long meeting the demand for a quick reasonably lunch or dinner counter. Everything is kept as neat as a pin and the best that the market affords is served by him. The people appreciate his efforts to serve them as is shown by the members that gather there.

New Store, New Goods.

E. R. Thomson has bought and remodeled the Salinas Store next to Knox's Corner. He has put in an elegant plate glass front and extended the rear some thirty feet. There is not a prettier store in town. This big store is being filled with the choicest of new goods which the public is cordially invited to inspect.

Removal.

The store formerly occupied by Thomson Brothers has been remodeled and put in good order, and is now occupied by 1). Polisk off. He is now better prepared to serve his exten-sive custom. See his ad in this week's issue.

Taggart McComb

An event of interest to a wide circle of friends in this state and throughout South Carolina, was the marriage of Miss Minnle Taggart to Mr. R. S. McComb, both of Abbeville, S. C., which occured at the home of the bride's brother, J. L. Taggart, of this city, on Wednesday evening at 6 o'clock.

The house was prettily decorated with palms, ferns and cut flowers. To the strains of the wedding march played by Mrs. J. M. Whitehead, the bride and groom entered the parlor where the ceremony was performed before a background of palms and ferns.

The bride wore a stylish going away suit of gray with hat to match and carried a bouquet of ferns and roses.

After the ceremony a delicious wedding breakfast was served from the buff-t.

Miss Taggart is a loyely young woman with a strong and attractive personality, while Mr. McComb is a young man of steriling qualities and has a host of warm friends.

The couple left at 8 o'clock for Abbeville, where they will make their future home.

These young people are both of Abbeville and have a host of friends and well wishers here.

TRAINING SCHOOL FOR COOKS.

There Should Be One Such School in Every Home.

We copy the following from a long letter sent by a housekeeper in which complaint is made of the scarcity of domestic servants, the high wages demanded and the poor quality of the service:

"Forty years ago things were not like this, wages not high and service was good. Do you not think that there ought to be schools for training domestic servants?"

Certainly, madam, there should be one such school in every home.

No matter whether girls dwell in luxury or not, they ought to know how to cook and sew

Certainly, madam, there should be one such school in every home.

No matter whether girls dwell in luxury or not, they ought to know how to cook and sew and wash and iron and keep house. We all have contempt for the young man of wealth who grows up without occupation and with no capacity to do anything. Yet that is the way in which most American girls are being reared, even in the ranks of the wage-earner. Every mother now seems to think it demeaning for her daugnter to learn to do hard work. She expects her to marry a man who will be able to provide plenty of servants. And if she is so fortunate, how can she expect good service when she cannot do the work herself nor explain how it should be done?

If the average man knew as little about his work as the average woman does about housework, the country would soon be in a state of chaos. We men have planty of opportunities to learn better methods; but they seldom accept them. No woman is competent to run a household unless she knows every detail of the work and can perform it herself. Would the Carnegle Steel people employ a president or superintendent who did not know his business?

And now, dear madam, and all women who read this. When on Thursday your servant goes out—if you have but one—do you get up a nice dinner for your family and see that the service is excellent? Do you not rather use all the scraps and leftovers and do aslittle ax possible? Is the table ever property set so that you do not have to get up and run to the china closet? Are you not proud of the meals and the service which you give the husband who works for those who are away. Doea he do it in a slovenly manner? Does he' not do the work in the service who are away. Doea he do it in a slovenly manner about your business. Your busband will appreciate it. If you have daughters to marry off, make them prime nousekeepers and they will draw prizas.—Philadelphta Inquirer.

RUSTICATING.

Spending a Short Time in the Quiet Little Town of Anderson. Mrs. McFall, proprietor of the best hotel in America, left Abbeville last Saturday with her children to spend a few days among kindred and friends in Anderson. After rusticating there for a few days they will re-turn to the city.

Mr. Hugh M. Bigby of Pelzer was in town isst Monday. He is jeweler in his home town, and was merely passing through the city on his way from Greenwood back home.
